Procter cast stone replicate post office stone on new house build

Client

Self-build / Home owner

Location of Project

Boxmoor, near Hemel Hempstead, Hertfordshire

Project Overview

We originally got the inquiry for cast stone product for this new property through an exhibition stand we had at the National Self Build and Renovation Centre in Swindon, and were then subsequently commissioned to go ahead with the project in August 2010.

Project Notes

This is a classic example of how high quality cast stone is far more cost-effective and practical compared to natural stone, whilst still looking entirely convincing.

Client Feedback

Very happy with all aspects of the work and especially how authentic the cast stone looked relative to natural stone.
